Have I got some money saving tips for you (that being the theme of this quarter). If you're a cold, wet, and penniless student- my helpful tip for the quarter is watch the radio, it may not have the special effects of a movie, but if you're really penniless the equalizer lights will make you just as happy. These other tips are just as good:

Learn to complain about where your money is going to- If you're a UCI student, you pay $___ in ASUCI fees three times a year. Do you know where the money goes? Do you know what your elected ASUCI officials are doing? Every Wednesday evening from 6:30 to 7pm the ASUCI show will talk to your chosen leaders and discuss the current events. Once you know this basic information, you'll know who to

Kuci Mailing List

Would you like to receive periodic updates about goings-on at KUCI, including upcoming on-air ticket and album giveaways, receive information about the upcoming KUCI fund drive and benefit concert, and receive our wonderful program guide when it is published quarterly? talk to the next time it rains and you're hungry and waiting for the bus.

Looking for free things to do? Has anyone ever told you what a terrific voice you have, tired of your dumb job? Join the exciting world of college radio. Each school quarter KUCI trains UCI students to become DJ's. In just 8 quick weeks you can get a FCC licence and impress your friends. Once you've completed this, you're just a half step away from becoming a DJ on Orange Counties' only alternative, soon-to-be 200 watt, radio station...and it's free.

And basically when you get right down to it, if you're wondering why you're penniless, and you haven't come up with any good reasons yet- blame the government. That's what there there for. And listen if you dare on March forth as KUCI broadcasts its second year of Day of Decency. A whole day of information and controversy galore as the topic of censorship is discussed. Blame the government? Maybe. So tune in, off, or up...if you're in to that sorta thing.

Helmet was formed in May 1989 by vocalist/guitarist/songwriter Page Hamilton. The band's focused angst and dark sarcasm, processed through tight throbbing riffs and droning vocals has brought them to the forefront of the underground. Their two and half years together has yielded the two 45s, tracks on Dope, Guns and Fucking and Ugly American, and of course their ingenious LP Strap it On. (All on Amphetamine Reptile.)

Helmet's strength comes from the diverse backgrounds of its members. Hamilton played with Band of Susans, guitarist Pete Mengede was an unofficial member of Australia's New Christs, bassist Henry Bogdan was in Poison Idea, and drummer John Strandier plays on and off with NYC's Crawl Pappy. With about six major labels pursuing them since their last tour, Helmet has signed with Warner Bros. I chatted with front man Page Hamilton after their most recent California tour. (Dec. 7, 1991) --Lila-Lu.

Lila: How did the tour go?

Page: Well, this is sort of a mini-tour, we did a few dates in NYC, and we flew out to California, and started in Davis.

Lila: Was this better than the last tour?

Page: Yes, absolutely. This time we knew people came out to see us. Last time, when we toured with Tad, we didn't really know for sure. It felt like a lot of support, most of the shows were sold-out.

Lila: I guess you guys can never play at a small place like JabberJaw again.

Page: Yeah, another UNANNOUNCED show like the last one. (laughs) I guess we can always do a Helmet acoustic, where we cover Bob Dylan songs.

Lila: How was Europe?

Page: It worked out well, playing with all those bands. We toured with God Bullies, Surgery, Tar and Halo of Flies. Twenty-three people on a bus that sleeps 18, and all guys. We are probably going to go back after we record.

Lila: Is there going to be any more peel session stuff? What about a Sub Pop 7"?

Page: I think we are going to release another 7". Rude/Sinatra, distributed through Caroline records. Other than that, nothing else for a while. About the Sub Pop thing, we are going to bag it. Its ridiculous, they can't just put the cards down on the table. It's gotten so fishy. Why the fuck haven't they called me, and just say "This is how much you guys get upfront and this much per single"— that's all that has to happen. At this point, I don't want to give up the material. If they called and apologized, maybe. It's all a mystery to me as to how they run their shit.

Lila: What has it been like with all the industry attention?

Page: I think every show we have played, since our last longer tour in September, there was an industry person, except Richmond, Va. It's been getting kind of different, we were feeling a lot of pressure for a while. We realized we should just do what we have been doing. It got to be so ridiculous that it wasn't fun to play. Well, we did manage to get a lot of free meals.

Lila: Basically people know who you are across the US? How's the midwest?

Page: I love the midwest, Minneapolis and Chicago are some of the greatest places to play. It's surprising at this point, we haven't been anywhere where the people didn't know who we are, except for Kill Devil Hills, North Carolina and Pensacola, Florida. We've been really happy with the turn out.

Lila: Any side projects going on?

Page: Not really. I'm involved with a dance chore for theatre, but other than that, no. John is playing with Crawl Pappy while we're here. We are just waiting to get in studio. I am always working on songs, I pretty much write 95% of the stuff for Helmet.

Lila: Your recent 7" sounds kind of different than the LP. What's the new LP going to sound like?

Page: We've been hearing a lot of that. Actually there will be some of that, and also some other stuff. The more we play the better we get, and the better my singing gets. It's developing naturally, we are not thinking—we need to be mellow, otherwise we want more hits—that is the last thing on our minds.

Lila: Everything seems to be happening really fast, do you agree with that?

Page: Yes, I really do, and I'd like to thank bands like Nirvana and Metallica for getting the industry wipped into a frenzy over bands like us. The time is right for new bands to have platinum records. Although, I don't really want to be compared with either band, and I doubt Nirvana wants to be compared to Helmet.

Lila: Have you written most of the stuff for the new LP?

Page: Not most of it. I would say about 75% done and at various stages of "doneness". Some of the stuff I am happy with, but not all. We will probably have it done by February, then we can go into studio.

Lila: I guess working with lawyer, manager and a publicist?

Page: It's great. You need people to talk turkey with the label people. The last LP we didn't have any of these people, but they just make it easier for us to concentrate on our music. It is very easy to get overwhelmed with all the business. Also, we've been on the road pretty much on and off, except for a few minor setbacks. John got appendicitis, and I nearly chopped off my finger.

Lila: You're from the west coast, right?

Page: Yeah, I'm from Oregon. I went to Oregon University for my BA, and then I moved to NY to get my Masters at Manhattan School of Music. I was in Band of Susans back then, which was a totally different thing, then Helmet. I learned a lot, about other types of music. I hate people who get caught up in liking only a specific type of music, that is so boring. I think I used to be that way when I was 16.

Music Reviews

by Todd Sievers, External Music Director

DIRTY DOZEN BRASS BAND: *Whatcha Gonna Do for the Rest of Your Life - This passionate new release from the DDBB, available on Sony Music Records, displays life's craziness through some sweet horn and saxophone arrangements. As a jazz band from New Orleans, the DDBB has a little bit of competition to stand up to! This album exposes all the necessary elements of any respected jazz ensemble, but the DDBB adds a spark of joy, a true taste of emotion and fun. The messages spoken through these quirky arrangements are worthy of everyone's undivided attention; young, old, rocker, or jazz fanatic. Do yourself a favor and check out this awesome band, it won't be a waste of your time. I can't help but smile and tap my foot with each listen. Music for the soul.

COP SHOOT COP: *White Noise - What? No Guitars!! That's right, this noisy New York outfit which has been known as guitar wall with mild melodies and angst has dropped its identity. Maybe you're wondering what's left of this quartet. All I can say is the angst didn't go anywhere. Cop Shoot Cop is a powerful, frenzied band loaded with noisy sounds and samples. Produced by Jim Thirwell (from the band Foetus), this new album has a definite post-punk industrial feel. If you like it loud and loaded with pain go get yourself some White Noise.

SLOWDIVE: *Just for a Day - Finally available domestically, this beautiful Creation band is now available through SBK records. If you dig the whole 4AD sound, this band is for you! An awesome blending of moody, melancholy, ethereal guitar layers laced harmoniously by an echoing female vocalist, Rachel Gosell. The songs require your undivided attention in order to absorb the ambiance, emotion, and power of this act. Combine 'My Bloody Valentine' with 'Dead Can Dance' and you can get a pretty good picture of the style this band portrays. There is a gloom-filled dark overtone on this album, a nice change of pace from the pop star riff-raff saturating commercial radio today.

THE VERLAINES: *Ready to Fly - You can find no wrong with such a sweet honest pop act as the Verlaines. This trio from New Zealand performs stimulating creative songs with some exceptional lyrics. At times the racing acoustic guitar resembles the U.K.'s Wedding Present, however the album's depth portrays many styles and sounds. The Verlaines' aura is bright, sharing songs of contented being through pleasant, simple melodies that hook your ear and keep you humming the rest of the day. Get ready to fly when you first hear The Verlaines.

Tar consists of probably the four most straightfoward-no bullshit-fuck schmoozing-kinda guys around.

This Chicago quartet never gets caught up with the whole competitive feud between bands, labels etc. They're just out to play music, and their churning spools of guitar sounds puts the New York noisecore bands to shame. Tar are John Mohr (guitar, vocals), Tom Zaluckyj (bass), Mark Zablocki (guitar), and Mike Greenlees (Drums). Smiling Fiendo and I talked to John and Mike at their last gig in L.A in support of their latest LP Jackson. —LILA-LU

Lila: How did Tar get started?

John: In '88 Chicago we put out our our first single. Tom Hazelmayer (owner of Amphetamine Reptile) heard us and liked us, since then we've been hooked up. We put out two singles, one track on a compilation, and two LPs.

Mike: We were set to put out our second single on our own, cuz we had no offers, but then Tom showed up.

John: We were really excited about the new stuff. We were trying something new. We threw out all the old stuff, and started from scratch.

Lila: How is it at Amphetamine Reptile?

John: Pretty good, they've had some problems with distributors falling through, but it is one of the best independent labels around.

Lila: Did you guys tour Europe?

John: Yeah, it was an Am. Rep. package deal, we toured with four other bands. Five bands, eight shows and one bus.

Mike: It was fun to do, I dont think it would have been if it was any longer. We went to Holland, Switzerland, Germany, Austria and England.

We did four places in Germany.

People are very intense over there. We all played for a half hour, God Bullies headlined the tour, cuz they've been to Europe before. Halo of Flies opened up every show, the bands in the middle rotated.

John: We've been across the U.S several times, but only during the last two tours people came out to really see us. This tour is by far the best, even though we hit a deer the first day on the road.

Mike: On stage in London , the Halo of Flies broke up. Tom threw up his guitar and walked off stage and that was it.

Lila: What happened to the last bass player?

John: Bizarre gardening accident. Well, actually we just kinda chucked him.

Mike: We knew Tom (bass player) through a friend of ours, who had a recording studio.

Lila: And he just happened to have an aluminum bass guitar?

John: Tom and I got our guitars custom made for about $500.00. They're really easy to carry around.

Lila: Did you guys group-produce the new LP?

Mike: Yes, along with an engineer. Engineering is far more important than production.

Lila: So do you guys basically like the stuff that is coming out on Am. Rep?

Mike: Yeah, for the most part. I don't think some bands are being done justice with the production.

John: We recorded Jackson in five days.

You go in knowing what you want to do and you end up getting it done really fast. How is Jackson doing retail wise? Better than Roundhouse (first LP)?

John: It is doing much better than the first LP. Am. Rep has a new distribution route, through Dutch East India and Caroline, while Roundhouse was only through Rough Trade. They are working more directly with retailers.

Lila: Going to do more videos?

Mike: Actually we already did one for Goethe. We submitted it to MTV, who knows.

John: We are going to be on another Dope, Guns and Fucking compilation. I just can't wait to go home first and do laundry and see if I can actually get a job.
